REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT to the BOARD OF EDUCATION

MR. PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS:

It is my pleasure to present to you the biennial report of the affairs and progress of the Utah Schools for the Deaf and the Blind for the period ending June 30, 1956.

This report is made with the intention of giving to you and to the parents, students, and friends of the school a record of our activities during the past biennium 1954 to 1956. It shows the educational program and other services that are being provided for the children who, because of defective vision, or blindness can not be educated in a satisfactory manner in our public schools. The school is strictly educational in its nature. It provides training in academic subjects, beginning with the first grade and continuing through the grades leading to graduation from High School.

Respectfully yours,

Harold W. Green, Superintendent

History of Our Schools

The social forces of a community have always had a tremendous effect upon the education of the community. The education of the deaf in Utah is no exception. There were three major factors at work which culminated in 1884 in the establishment of the Utah School for the Deaf and Dumb. They were: the wide-spread interest throughout the United States in the education of the deaf; the deep-rooted love for education in general felt by the early settlers of Utah; and the homogeneous religious nature of the communities.

The Utah pioneers were a deeply religious people. They believed that the spiritual welfare of their children was dependent upon their ability to obtain knowledge. It was only natural for the parents of deaf children to wish their children educated within the confines of the state. The nearest school was at Colorado Springs. To send the children there was expensive, and the long period of separation from the family and church seemed undesirable.

Naturally, the people most interested in the establishment of a school for the deaf were the parents of deaf children. Foremost among these were Joseph Beck, who had three deaf sons, and William Wood, whose deaf daughter, Elizabeth was attending the School for the Deaf at Colorado Springs.

The United States census of 1880 had reported 118 persons in the territory. Mr. Beck, in 1883, circulated a letter throughout the territory to ascertain how many of these people were of school age. He received in reply the names of about fifty children.

William Wood, learning of Mr. Beck's interest and efforts visited him in his home. They worked together collecting statistics on the status of the deaf in Utah. They decided to petition the legislature for the establishment of a school.

Governor Eli Murray became interested in the cause, and in his message to the Legislature in 1884, he called its attention to the condition of the deaf in the territory and the need for a school where they could be properly educated.

It met with favorable consideration, and $4,000 ($2,000 per annum) was approved for the purpose of teaching a class of deaf-mutes at the University of Deseret.

The school opened August 26, 1884 in a room in the University building. Elizabeth Wood was the only pupil in attendance. By the end of September four pupils were enrolled. The total enrollment for the first year was fourteen. The second it was increased to eighteen.

The first two years, 1884 to 1886, the school was conducted as a day school. Pupils whose parents did not live in the city boarded in various parts of the city. This was most unsatisfactory, and an effort was made to establish a common home for all deaf children.

When the legislature convened in 1886, Professor White presented two petitions. In the first he requested an appropriation of $25,000 for the establishment of a territorial school for deaf-mutes. Later he introduced an amendment requesting $38,000 rather than the original sum. These were both objected, but the annual appropriation was raised from $2,000 to $3,000. These monies, however, were never available, as the entire appropriation bill was vetoed by the governor.

The Regents of the University, however, assumed the responsibility of conducting the school until such time as the legislature would come to their aid, and sessions of the school were not interrupted.

In 1886 Professor White, on his own responsibility, opened a home for its support upon money received from parents able to pay for their childrens' board, county aid, and donations from individuals. Salt Lake County made an annual appropriation of $900 for the support of five pupils.

In 1888 the Legislative Assembly enacted a law to establish and maintain, in connection with, and as a branch of the University of Deseret, a department to be known as the Institution of Deaf-Mutes.

This session of the legislature further provided that the Board of Regents should erect, on the University grounds, such buildings for the use of the institution as they deemed advisable. A sum of $20,000 was appropriated for this purpose and the per annum appropriation was raised to $5,000.

In 1889 the enrollment of the school was increased from eighteen to thirty-seven pupils.

In the Spring, work was begun on a building to be used by the institution, the estimated cost of which when completed would be $50,000.

Frank W. Metcalf was appointed principal of the school in 1889. When the institution was separated later from the University he became its first superintendent. Before coming to Utah, Mr. Metcalf was teacher of the high class at the Kansas Institution for the Deaf and Dumb. Professor White was appointed head teacher. In February, 1890, Professor White resigned his position and severed his connection with the Utah Institution.

In the Fall of 1889, in accordance with the provisions of the law, trade classes were introduced. Instruction was given in carpentry, printing and shoemaking. At this time only shoe repairing was done, although later shoes were actually constructed at the school.

The first copy of a small paper, "The Deseret Eagle" was published on October 10, 1889. The paper was continued to be published in a variety of forms, up to the present time.

In 1894, the legislature enacted a law which provided for the establishment of the "Utah School for the Blind." Since, however, the two schools have always been administered by the same board, have had the same superintendent, in most instances are subject to the same laws, and are housed on the same campus, for practical purposes they are regarded as one school. Legally, they are two separate and distinct institutions. One's title is: "The Utah School for the Deaf"; the other's: "The Utah School for the Blind."

For eleven years the school had been a part of the Territorial University, the highest educational institution in the territory. In this respect the school was unique, as it was the only school for the deaf so connected in the United States, if not in the world. This connection was advantageous in that it made the school from the start, a part of the public school system of the territory, a birthright which has been a lasting benefit.

From 1884 to 1896 the annual enrollment had increased from fourteen to fifty-five pupils.

Besides the common branches of knowledge, instruction was given in speech and lip-reading, carpentry, printing, and shoemaking.

The school was now on a firm basis and was ready to accept its rightful place as an independent educational institution serving the children handicapped by deafness of the State of Utah, Idaho and the Territory of Arizona.

Inasmuch as the school was now separated from the University of Utah, the question of a suitable location arose. A number of localities attempted to secure the school, among them Ogden in Weber County; Ephraim, Sanpete County; Fort Cameron, Beaver County; and Fillmore, Millard County. The Constitutional Convention decided that Ogden offered the greatest advantages and permanently located the school there. In 1896 the Legislature decided to carry out the provisions of the Constitution by locating the school in the buildings then occupied by the Territorial Reform School. On September 15, 1896, the property was transferred and became the permanent home of the Utah School for the Deaf.

Purpose of the School and General Information

The primary objective of this school is to provide an education in its broadest sense for the deaf children from the State of Utah. Deaf children between the ages of five and twenty-one who are not incapacitated by physical, mental, or moral infirmity for useful instruction shall be considered eligible for admission as pupils to this school.

All suitable children will be admitted and every effort made to instruct and train them, but should any prove either mentally deficient, physically incapable, or disobedient in conduct, their parents or guardians will be notified to remove them from the school.

The parent is instructed to not send the child until they have received notice that he will be admitted. After the child is admitted, he will not be permanently enrolled until his case is passed upon by the school physician and the school administration.

We follow a course of study that correlates very closely with that outlined by the State Department of Education.

We have two distinct and complete schools on our campus, a School for the Deaf and a School for the Blind, located at 846 - 20th Street in Ogden. Both Schools are operated through the same administrative office and under the direction of the State Department of Education.

These schools were established for the education of all children in the State of Utah who are too deaf or too blind to be properly educated in the public schools, but who are otherwise normal mentally and physically. We accept children at age five in the School for the Deaf and at age six in the School for the Blind. Out-of-state pupils may be accepted upon terms such as the board of trustees may prescribe. This has recently been based on per capita costs.

Board, room, laundry, tuition and minor medical expenses are free. Parents must provide necessary clothing, transportation, special medical care or hospitalization, and a fifteen dollar deposit for incidental expenses. This deposit should be maintained throughout the year. Every article of clothing should be plainly marked with name tape.

Application for admission should be made in advance to Miss Kate Fenton, Field Representative.

Community Programs and Activities

We have continued our contact with the community. The public has been urged to attend functions at our schools, and the schools have gone into the community. Our new auditorium has greatly expanded our contacts with the public in providing space and a lovely setting where we can present more impressive programs and demonstrations.

Among our better attended public programs were: Lion's Club Santa Claus parties, Commencement Exercises, Rhythm Demonstrations, Primary Hall Programs, Christmas Plays, Spring Musicals, and Programs for Special Holidays.

We have been very active in presenting programs to various civic groups, P. T. A. and school groups.

We have received frequent visits from groups of nurses, welfare and civic organizations, and High School and University groups. They have gained understanding impressions of our work. This has aided in elevating the general educational and health levels of the State of Utah.

Our Staff and pupils have prominently participated in civic drives such as: The March of Dimes, the Community Chest, The Red Cross, and drives for waste paper, scrap metals and clothing.

General Instruction

Every pupil in the Utah School for the Deaf is instructed in the academic work by the use of lipreading and spoken and written language. In shops and assemblies and during physical education the combined method of communication is used.

The use of language in both spoken and written forms is emphasized in all class work.

The pupils are given the same studies as those given in the public schools with the exception that we add classes in sense training, speech and lipreading, and give additional emphasis to vocational training.

Group hearing aids are available for children of the primary and intermediate grades. The purchase of individual hearing aids is encouraged in event audiometric tests and classroom experiences show considerable residual hearing. It is felt that hearing of even limited amount is valuable in establishing a sense of accent, rhythm and quality which can to some degree aid in speech and lipreading.

The students in the School for the Blind follow the prescribed courses as given to the public schools with additional courses in typing, braille, music and crafts.

Health

Mrs. Coila Burton, a practical nurse, resides in the school hospital and is subject to call at all times, except on her day off when a substitute nurse is called in to relieve her.

A registered nurse from the State Department of Health (Mrs. Ruth Wheeler) continues to maintain office headquarters in our school hospital. Our health program is operated under her direction. It was active during the entire twelve months period. Local health nurses checked on pupils' health during the summer months.

The registered nurse held regular clinics each week day morning. Each Tuesday morning a pediatrician (Dr. Grant Way) conducted special clinical services at the school. The hospital housemother conducted routine hospital and health procedures. Doctors and dentists have been available to call.

Our immunization program has been thorough. Each new pupil is immunized for small pox, tetanus, typhoid, diphtherie, and whooping cough. Older pupils are placed upon a regular schedule in maintaining advisable immunization. Immunization for measles, X-ray tests for tuberculosis and periodic giving of the Schick test have been among other health precautions taken.

In general we boast of a splendid health record. We accredit this to regular hours, planned meals, and recreation, precautionary and preventative measures, and prompt and expert treatment.

FIELD WORK

There were sixty-two children listed as pre-school blind that were visited in their home during the period of July 1, 1954 — June 30, 1956. The parents were given suggestions in the care and training of their children. Newsletters pertinent to the subject of the blind children were printed at the School for the Deaf Print Shop, and sent to the parents at intervals during this time.

Five students were placed in the public schools in the State. These students were provided with Brailled text books or student readers. This expense was borne by the Utah School for the Blind. Visits were made to these schools by the Field Representative in order to watch the progress of these students and give assistance when needed.

An institute for parents of Visually Handicapped Children, ages 3 to 6, was held Monday, June 6 through Friday, June 10, 1955, at the Utah School for the Blind. The group spent the week living in the dormitory. The children spent the day with the kindergarten teacher while the parents attended lectures by prominent, professional people, and saw films pertaining to the Blind.

There were fifty-five children listed as pre-school deaf that were visited in their home during the period of July 1, 1954 — June 30, 1956. The parents were urged to subscribe to the John Traey Correspondence course for parents of little deaf children. Newsletters pertinent to the subject of the deaf child were printed at the School for the Deaf Print Shop and sent to the parents at intervals during this time.

An Institute for parents of Aurally Handicapped Children, ages 4 to 6, was held Monday, June 4 through Friday, June 8, 1956 at the Utah School for the Deaf. The group spent the week living in the dormitory. The children spent the day with the kindergarten teacher, while the parents attended lectures by prominent, professional people and saw films pertaining to the Deaf.

The tables on pages 14 and 15 show the numbers of boys and girls withdrawn from the Utah Schools for the Deaf and the Blind from July 1, 1954 to June 30, 1956 and the reasons for the withdrawals.

Another service of this department was hearing tests given at the request of the Public Health Nurses in areas outside of Ogden City and the Children's Clinic. Total number tested 106.

Psychological Testing

Forty-two students in the Utah School for the Blind have been given the Interim Hayes Binet Intelligence Tests for the Blind.

Forty-two students in the Utah School for the Blind have been given the Wechsler Intelligence Scale for Children.

Sixty-five students in the Utah School for the Deaf have been given the Leiter International Performance Scale.

The Leiter Test was given to twenty-one out-patients at the request of Children's Health Center in Salt Lake City and Children's Clinic in the Ogden area.

Continuing Services

During this biennium the outstanding services as recorded in one or both of the past biennial reports have been continued. These include:

Clinics for parents of preschool children
